We have revised the ant identification key and updated it for new species and where name changes have occurred.

We've also updated the species list given the taxonomic changes that have occurred in the ant world and added their Biostatus (introduced, endemic, etc).

We are working through technical issues getting the ant distribution database up live, but we are encouraging people to send us records.

We've done a general update throughout the site (eg. Publications, etc) and have added a "News" section with brief explanations of our most recent work and interesting finds.
